Presents

"Genealogical Gold"

with

Paula Stuart-Warren

Saturday, February 11, 2012

Since the early 1980s, Paula has worked full time in genealogical and historical research, lecturing, consulting, and writing. She is a Board-certified genealogist. A firm believer in continuing education, Paula strives to keep up-to-date by participating in national and local conferences and by reading the publications of many genealogical, historical organizations and individuals.

Paula served two years as a national officer of the Association of Professional Genealogists and six years as a board member of the Minnesota Genealogical Society and continues to be an active volunteer in genealogical, historical, and professional organizations.

Paula has written articles for numerous magazines and authored Minnesota Genealogical Reference Guide. She co-authored the best-selling Your Guide to the Family History Library: How to Access the World's Largest Genealogy Resource. Paula currently edits her own blog Paula's Genealogical Eclectica <www.PaulaStuartWarren.blogspot.com>
